ON IOWA FARM

N. C. GIBBS RETURNS GLADLY TO GLENDALE AFTER VISITING OLD HOME

"I lived in Iowa for 33 years," said N. C. Gibbs, 336 Cedar street. "I used to like the old place. I have a considerable extent of acreage in Harden county, near Union. However health is above all else and it was for that I came to California. After three months' experience in the old state this summer I am more pleased with Glendale than ever and am glad to get back to it.

"Of course it is more difficult to make a living here. When they talk about prosperity in the Middle West all I can tell about it is that everyone seemed comfortable and that money seemed to be in circulation. We spent the greater part of our time—Mrs. Gibbs and myself—in Harden county, Marshall county and Grundy county. We visited Union and Providence and many other towns and found them all flourishing.

"We visited my Son Elza in Harden county. We visited Independence and Waterloo where there is a very fine state hospital. All round that part of the country prosperity seems to reign. The crops are good but not what was expected. There was a failure of rain this year.

"There are a great number of small towns in this district, running between 5000 and 20,000 population. Corn, wheat, oats, grass were all looking well. The farmers will be prosperous. There is no lack of money and it is not the foreign money either, of which so much boast is made. This is honest American money, grown in the soil and circulating among those who made it grow.

"Everywhere there was confidence that the country was beginning to emerge out of the zone of poor trade and poor business that has afflicted particularly the Pacific coast during the past four years. People talk a great deal of what they have endured; yet most of them are comfortably off at present and have the promise of a better future. Most of them with whom I spoke seemed to have a longing to come out to California. I told them that I came to California four years ago a practical wreck. I then came to Glendale and went under medical treatment in the Sanitarium. It took me about six months to get thoroughly well but now I am as healthy as anyone can desire to be.

"Looking on me now, in my present condition of robust health and remembering what I was when I left Iowa, my old friends think California must be a wonderful place. They credit it with having a fountain of perpetual health if not of perpetual life. Every year some of these people come out to California and every year sees more and more of the younger people coming out to make homes for themselves and to grow up with the country."

MISS SOPER RETURNS.

Miss E. Maude Soper of the Glendale Union High school faculty has returned from the east where she spent the summer. She visited New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and many other places of interest en route. While absent she visited her brother who is a professor in Drew Theological Seminary at Mattison, N. J., not far from New York City. Miss Soper is at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Julius Soper, on North Maryland ready to take up her duties once more at the opening of High school.

UNIVERSITY AND FARM

SHORT COURSE STUDENTS INCREASE PROFITS FROM AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS

It pays the farmer to go to school, according to the University of California.

While arranging for the Short Courses in poultry husbandry, agriculture, horticulture, and dairy manufactures to be given at the University Farm at Davis from October 2 to November 10, the University of California has received a number of letters from farmers who attended former Short Courses in which they give enthusiastic testimony to the profit of their six weeks at the University Farm.

"The money I spent on the Short Course was the means of doubling my salary," said a letter received by the University from Carl Robertson of Santa Anita.

"I learned the trade of cheesemaking in the Short Course at the University Farm," wrote Oliver Ghigglioli, from Birds Landing, "and as my score in the Educational Contests shows, it has enabled me to hold my own against any experienced cheesemakers in California.

"The Short Course is worth cold dollars," wrote Sam Nealy of Rialto. "I passed along my notes and my training in hog-raising to my brother and it has made him money, especially in regard to feeding. The training in stock-judging was of great value to me. They can't palm off a cheap cow on me now. The Farmers' Short Course taught me that a farmer to be successful must really use his head."

"The Short Course in Dairying, through its lectures and clinics, gave me information I could not have procured by years of study by myself," wrote W. R. Heinbach of Fresno. "The course enabled me to start my own business and in six months I increased the daily capacity from 100 to 1000 pounds. The Short Course more than doubled my earning capacity."

"The Short Course in Dairy Manufactures did me a world of good," wrote Glenn Wilson of Chowchilla. What he learned there won him a position as manager of a creamery in Chowchilla.

"If I had had the opportunity to learn how to raise poultry the Short Course gives, instead of having to buy my knowledge by costly experience, I would be richer today by thousands of dollars," said one successful commercial poultryman in a talk to some of the University students of Poultry Husbandry. This year's poultry course is to teach the farmers and their wives who come to the University Farm how to incubate, brood, and care for fowls. There will not only be lectures, but all these processes will be learned by actually doing the work, and there will be instruction also in allied subjects, such as irrigation, gas engines, farm machinery, and field crops.

MUSICAL EVENING

Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Palmer of 116 West Colorado entertained informally at dinner, Thursday evening. Covers were laid for Rev. Vernon H. Cowsert of the First Baptist church and Mrs. Cowsert, Rev. and Mrs. A. B. Smart, Prof. and Mrs. A. Lowinsky and the host and hostess. Decorations were of Enchantress carnations and ferns. After dinner other friends and neighbors came in and enjoyed an impromptu musical program. Piano music by Ruth Palmer and Faith Turling and vocal solos by Ellene Grist and Hazel Walters were much enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham, most accomplished musicians, rendered piano selections with taste and skill. Prof. Lowinsky, well known violinist, gave great pleasure to the assembled guests by rendering The First Concerto by the French composer, Dubarrie, Beethoven's Minuet, Traumerel, Ave Maria and Souvenir. His interpretations were highly classical as he has handled the violin for the past forty years. Mrs. Lowinsky accompanied her husband with rare talent. Dainty refreshments were served and a fitting close to this delightful evening was the singing of "Nearer My God to Thee" with violin accompaniment by the assembled company and a prayer by Rev. Smart.

ROUMANIANS TO OPPOSE TEUTON ADVANCE

BUCHAREST RIDICULES GERMAN STATEMENTS CONCERNING CAPTURE OF ROUMANIAN TROOPS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
BUCHAREST, Roumania, Sept. 9.—It is stated here that the German accounts of the capture of Roumanian troops in the province of Dobrudja, are exaggerated. It was expected that the Teuto-Bulgars would attack weak points on the Danube and on the Black Sea; but it is said that troops are being rushed to expel the invaders. Responsible statesmen say that there were not as many troops in the captured forts and district as the Germans claim to have captured.

VILLA ON THE MARCH TO CHIHUAHUA

NOTORIOUS BANDIT SAYS HE WILL TAKE PART IN CELEBRATION SEPTEMBER 16

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
EL PASO, Sept. 9.—"I will shout (grito)" said Villa to an acquaintance whom he met on the march, "in Chihuahua on the eve of Independence day, Sept. 16." Villa and his band of 1100 veteran fighters, all armed to the teeth and with plenty of ammunition, are on their march to Chihuahua. Villa has apparently been quite ill. He is sallow and emaciated, walks with the aid of crutches, but can ride a horse.

EVENING BURGLARY

MRS. WARREN ROBERTS ROBBERED OF VALUABLE ARTICLES OF JEWELRY

While Mr. and Mrs. Warren Roberts of 707 West Seventh street were absent from their home a short time Thursday evening, a burglar entered their home and took all of Mrs. Roberts' large and valuable collection of jewelry and gems. The theft was perpetrated early in the evening as Mr. and Mrs. Roberts left the house at 8:15 and were at home again at five minutes after nine. Mr. and Mrs. E. U. Emery drove up to the house and asked them to go for a ride and to hear the band concert. Mrs. Roberts was wearing no jewelry, not even her wedding ring when she left the house. During their absence, the burglar came on the back porch and pried up one of the kitchen windows with a jimmy, breaking the lock. After entering the kitchen he unlocked the door and then proceeded with his operation. He went into the bedroom and scattered things about, tearing out the contents of closets and of drawers of dresser and dressing table. After taking all articles of value there he proceeded to the music room where he was in the act of rifling the writing desk when he was frightened away by Mr. and Mrs. Roberts returning home.

When they found what had happened they immediately summoned the police and made a list of the things that had been stolen. The articles taken were a gold wedding ring, a ring set with three pearls, a solitaire diamond ring, large opal ring, lavalliere set with five large pearls of unusual size and beauty, butterfly lavalliere set with rubies and emeralds, heavy gold chain with gold and handpainted pendant, string of gold beads, topaz brooch, lady's watch, lady's gold fob, gentleman's gold fob, bracelet, pin seal hand bag containing coin purse with something less than $10 in change.

Chief Herald is following all available clues and doing everything in his power to apprehend the burglar. However there is little hope of recovering the jewelry intact. A description of the articles taken have been furnished the police of Los Angeles and surrounding towns and as some of Mrs. Roberts' gems were of such a value as to be easily distinguishable it is likely that some of them may be recovered when the burglar attempts to dispose of them. A huge black pearl and several of the other stones were of unusual beauty and value and would attract the notice of jewelers at once.

This should be a warning to those who are in the habit of leaving articles of value in their homes when they go away. Locked doors are not always a safeguard against robbery and while Glendale is free from much of the crime that characterizes a larger city, yet it is well to be on the safe side when anything of value is concerned. Mrs. Roberts' friends are sympathizing with her in the loss of her jewelry, much of which from association had a value in her eyes far beyond the monetary value, which was considerable.

PROF. RAYMOND COMING.

The Parent-Teacher Federation is asking all friends to reserve the evenings of September 28, October 6 and 13. Professor Jerome Hall Raymond of the Berkeley University Extension work will lecture in the Glendale High school on those evenings, his subjects being Greece, Poland and Ireland. Those who heard Professor Raymond a year ago will plan to attend this course, which is under the auspices of the federation.

EVENING NEWS THANKS PUBLIC

In that period the subscription list has been greatly increased and the merchants have patronized the paper according to the magnitude of their business in a most generous manner. The Evening News is published in the interest of all of the Glendale community and recognizes no north, no south, no east, no west, but is a paper for the upbuilding of the locality in which it is published. It is controlled by no faction, no denomination, no corporation, no special business interests so therefore is well suited for representing the people as a news and advertising medium.

The Rev. T. J. Oliver Curren and Mrs. Curren, of San Pedro, were dinner guests Thursday, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. Irving Mills, 515 South Central avenue.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1916

MIRAGES IN THE ARCTIC

It is interesting to learn that the McMillan Arctic expedition has returned in safety to Battle Harbor, Labrador, after a strenuous time in the regions explored by Cook and Peary. McMillan pursued the same route as that taken by the two famous explorers. He was in search of Crocker land, the continent described as existing in the circumpolar regions, by Admiral Peary.

It is rather humiliating to Peary to learn that the great polar continent which he described as having seen has really no existence. After having established a base at Etah, in the spring of 1914, McMillan and Green made a dash of 130 miles across the polar ice to the supposed Crocker land, spoken of so much by Admiral Peary.

The explorers state that there is no doubt that they were deceived by a mirage, and that a similar mirage deceived Peary. They satisfied themselves that there was no land in the direction described by Peary. They thoroughly satisfied themselves that there was no land in that direction and after many dangers, and difficulties returned to their base at Etah. A great deal of what Dr. Cook said concerning his journey to the Pole, the accomplishment of which has been doubted, chiefly on Peary's statement, has been confirmed from time to time and now comes undoubted evidence that Peary himself was sadly in error concerning his Arctic experiences.

Those who have lived in the Arctic regions know there are many peculiarities of those regions that should make anyone, not to say accredited explorers, careful in the statements to which they append their signatures and lend their authority. The mirage is a well-known phenomenon that is familiar to those who have lived on the open tundra for any length of time. It is exceedingly deceptive, even more so than the mirage of the desert, for the outlines of continents it assumes are easily to be credited as being the real thing, they are so plain and unadorned and might so easily be in those places. On the desert again every traveler knows that there are no such beautiful lakes and trees and houses as are seen in the mirage. However much resemblance they may have to the real thing they cannot be believed to have an existence as everyone knows there is no large open body of water on the desert.

In early days however travelers were deceived by them and wandered out of their way and perished from thirst. In the Arctic the mirage is very deceptive. It is known in all parts of the Arctic. In the Shetland islands it is called in the old Norse dialect "Moorie." In an instant the whole landscape changes and a person may easily lose his way when within 100 yards of his own door.

Combined with Arctic mirages is Arctic lunacy of which many cases develop each year. The loneliness, the monotonous lack of change, the vast expanse of snow, the wild nights of raging winds, the lack of congenial companionship all tend to turn a person's thoughts inward and make him brood. This brooding finally develops into a species of insanity that passes away in mild cases when civilization is reached. These two Arctic phenomena—mirage and madness—may account in some degree for the vagaries of the explorers Cook and Peary. The mirage is proved anyway.

CONDITIONS ON WEST WAR FRONT.

What has so often been foreseen has now become a reality on the western war front in Europe. The British and French have taken the German first and second lines of defense and are sweeping on to the capture of Peronne, and other vital points in the German third line. They are within measurable distance of those points at certain places but the whole line must come up and be straightened out before the desired places can be carried.

Much of this may be done within the next three weeks or it may be that the Allies may have to wait till next summer before they can overwhelm the Germans in the number of guns. It is certain that both sides will work with feverish activity at the casting and manufacture of big guns and will strive to outdo each other in this respect, but it is equally certain that the Allies by next summer will have a preponderance in the number of their guns while it is by no means equally certain that the Teutons can match them in that respect.

It is also certain that the extended lines on which the Germans are at present being forced to fight must be shortened and the troops at their command concentrated. In order to comply with the Kaiser's command that the German regiments must die but must not give up their third line of defense in Picardy troops have been taken from other sections of the German lines in France.

This is just what the steadfast genius of the French commander-in-chief, General Joffre, has been aiming at all along. Now he has his wish and the world may be sure such a condition will be taken advantage of. There will now be weak spots in the German line of defense and it will be for the French to search them out and break through. That would be the beginning of a debacle that would be as serious in its final consequences as was the breakdown of the French at Sedan in 1870-71.

For the United States the lesson is imperative. The country is not and never will be aggressive. Just at present the world believes that there is nothing that would make it fight. The world as usual is mistaken; but it is the truth that unless something changes in the whole attitude of the country the plans of foreign countries to invade this land would be easily set agoing.

Perhaps the most fatally weak spot of this land is that it has now in actual gold drawn from European pockets $500,000,000. That is an enormous sum to have in actual gold. Nothing like that has ever been known in the world. Does it not seem, as General Homer Lea prophesied, that when the merchants and manufacturers have waxed fat with prosperity, some lean and hungry nation will arrive on the scene and endeavor to secure a portion of that wealth.

Fortunately the country is arousing itself to the need for defense and defense movements are being arranged and put into prac-

On every hand. Perhaps the most necessary is that of the defense of our big seaports. Equally important is the bringing of the arsenals and munitions factories inland, well into the heart of the middle states; the completion of a system of air defense and the thorough strengthening of the navy.

Provision is being made for some of these things and it is to be hoped that by the time the European war is over there will be a proper system of military, naval and fort defense throughout the land.

ERROR IN COPY

10,000 instead of 100,000

Our advertisement in the Sept. 7th issue of The Glendale News, stating that the Buick Six 45 will go 100,000 miles on a set of tires was an error, apparently, in the copy.

The advertisement should have read 10,000 miles on a set of tires. There are to my knowledge several Buick cars in my territory that have gone over this mileage. However there are many that get less, which is due largely to fast driving or under inflation of tires. It is just as important to keep the air up in your tires as it is to keep oil in your motor.

J. G. HUNCHBERGER.

Success is not due so much to unusual opportunity as to recognizing opportunity and acting upon it.

LA CRESCENTA

A jolly lot of La Crescenta boys hiked to Mt. Lowe and Mt. Wilson Sunday morning. After returning they stopped at the Alpine Tavern, Mt. Lowe, overnight, where the boys made some hit singing songs and telling stories. The boys consisted of James Jones, Lew Wallis, Lew Maranville, Hooper Berry, Walter Anderson and Henry Klengesmith of Los Angeles. They returned home Monday evening, happy as ever.

While on the trail to Wilson James Jones of La Crescenta was trying out a Charlie Chaplin stunt, which landed him off the cliff into a canyon below. He was rescued by the party of pals—Lew Maranville, Lew Wallis, Hooper Berry and Walter Anderson—who slid down after him. Jimmy says the scenery was so good that he fell for it.

If you ever heard a good quartette singing hen ask James Jones, Lew Wallis, Hooper Berry and Lew Maranville to sing "My Wild Irish Rose." They are the favorites of Mt. Wilson trail and, believe me, said someone on the trail, that tall dark fellow, Lew Wallis, is some comedian. He sang a song composed by himself which is a hit, entitled "Say, Boys, Let's Eat," and they did.

Musical Concert

Marcella Craft says of her, "She has a remarkable voice of great compass, especially strong and sweet in the upper register."

Pianist, Mr. Laichinger.

THE WAY TO THE EAST

Any time you have occasion to plan a trip to any point East that can be reached via Salt Lake City, and that means almost anywhere in the United States and Canada, just bear in mind the excellent service of the Salt Lake Route, with its Los Angeles Limited and Pacific Limited trains; less than three days to Chicago, with through sleepers and dining cars. Free chair cars in Pacific Limited. The Overland Express is a good one, too, but not so fast; has through sleepers, chair cars and coaches to Salt Lake, connecting for Eastern points.

Ask any ticket agent of the and get full information about trains, fares, etc.

Hunters Get Naught

More than a dozen nimrods from Burbank and vicinity chased the elusive deer over the mountains during the Labor Day week end but failed to bring home a thing other than a few doves. Luck seemed to be lacking for the local boys and several hold up their thorn and thistle torn hands and swear, "Never again."

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Gibson of Burbank are attending the I. B. S. A. convention in Los Angeles this week.

Mrs. M. Hofeditz and children, Mrs. R. E. French and child, and Edward S. Masters, all of Visalia, Calif., were guests at Hotel Marion, Monday night.

F. A. Tetley of the Tetley Hotel at Riverside, was here Wednesday on a business trip.

The Episcopal service at the I. O. F. hall last Sunday was well attended. Rector Rev. Robert Rensome of Los Angeles was in the city Thursday to form the Sunday School classes. The next services will be held the 24th of this month in the I. O. F. hall in Hotel Marion.

M. S. Steinberg, a geological surveyor for the U. S. Government, was in Burbank Monday of this week, on official business. Mr. Steinberg has travelled all over the world, having visited the Orient in his search for information for the government.

R. O. Church, cashier of the First National bank of Burbank, accompanied by his family and friends of Portland, Ore., were San Diego visitors the first of the week.

LA CANADA

Mr. Charles Pate is fixing the old school house so that it can be occupied until the new school house is completed.

Mr. and Mrs. Husing and son from Long Beach are now living on Roy avenue, just across from the property owned by I. H. Armstrong. Mr. Husing and family are very much pleased with our valley and climate that they may make this their future home.

WALKING ATTIRE.

While evening dresses are elaborate, the ordinary walking attire associated with the sports coat and tailor-made is severely simple. Girls certainly want nothing but a tailor-made, even for London wear, with cotton or similar frocks, with which they can indulge in pretty fancies, showing as much or as little of the neck as they please by way of variety. The dress that reflects the physical activities of a woman's life requires to be well chosen, but farm labor requires its own special garb. It is a question whether it is altogether good taste to adorn the tailor-made or its blouse with gold embroidery, says the Queen, London. This fashion for tinsel requires restraint and common sense.

Not until one comes to realize that money isn't all does he grasp something of an idea of the true fullness of life.
